DIY Language Learning Adventures

Favourite language learning experiences

I have been studying English for more than 8 years now, and ~~over the~~ have reached a profound level in it. Naturally, I have tried out numerous ways to learn the language, and today I'd like to tell you about my favourite experiences of studying it.

Native speakers

First of all, I have to say that what helped me the most was talking to foreigners. If you don't have the opportunity to visit another country, you can easily find ~~friend~~ <sup>attend</sup> via numerous online platforms. I did so a few years ago, and now I have a friend called Christopher who is from England. We text each other almost every day, and ~~that~~ <sup>that</sup> has already helped me to find out more about the culture of England and learn many frequently used expressions. ~~That's why~~ +++ I believe that everyone should try it as well. Unfortunately, I haven't participated in any language exchange programmes, but I would very much like to because ~~it~~ ~~that~~ in a foreign country you are completely ~~more~~ immersed in the language.

Books

Reading books in English, especially aloud, has also helped me a lot. This way, ~~I have~~ <sup>I've</sup> greatly improved my pronunciation and have even tried to imitate some accents! ~~That's~~ The 'Harry Potter' series, for instance, is perfect for this. In it, many different accents are used, such as Irish, Scottish, RP, Northern English and so on, so if you try to read it out loud, ~~you'll~~ <sup>you'll</sup> have to try to imitate them.

Your opinions

Have you, my fellow readers, tried any of these methods? Do you know any other good ones that I haven't mentioned ~~any~~? Share your thoughts in the comments, please! 505
