Ordinary people do not always think about a subtext of their words unlike actors.

On the other hand, as a society we have since to times when we play as actors on a daily basis. (lie)

Conclusion

It is worth noticing that not all students tend to shape their opinions on the attractions of the education abroad. As the it becomes easier to students to go to more the see apply to foreign schools, there might be a loss of motivation, the demand for a decent job among the youth and the observed lack of it in the home country.

prospects to be the most valuable. They also have a financial ability to travel and might have already developed sufficient language skills to not be attracted by the prospect of learning further language learning. On the other hand, bachelor degree students consider increased maturity and self-confidence as well as language learning prospects more appealing, since they are young adults and teenagers who did not have the level of experience and education the Masters have. In the future, it is natural to expect the growth of the import attractiveness of the better cultural understanding due to the globalization process. Traveling opportunities might become equally appealing to ~~young students~~ as traveling was not possible for a long time due to the recent pandemic.

Conclusion

It is worth noticing that all students tend to share most of the points, that motivate them to study abroad. As it becomes easier for teenagers to apply to foreign schools, the list of attractions will grow. The undeniable fact is the demand for a decent job among the youth, which they consider to be fulfilled abroad. ~~unfulfilled~~ <sup>unsatisfied</sup> demand for a decent job among the Russian youth.

A REPORT ON THE ATTRACTIONS OF STUDYING ABROAD

Julie Sanders, a reporter
St Petersburg Headquarters
28/08/2021

Introduction

The aim of this report is to list and describe some points, which motivate students to continue their education abroad. Moreover, the report is intended to assess the difference between Bachelor and Master Degree students' answers, as well as highlight some possible reasons for the observed trends. The data was collected via survey among 100,000 Russian students.

General Trends

According to the received data, there are 5 main attractions: language learning and future career prospects, increased maturity and self-confidence, better understanding of cultural values and biases, and traveling opportunities. Bachelors and Master seem to share the view on the most important attraction being career prospects. However, the amount of the Master Degree students, supporting that point is slightly higher. While both categories agree that better cultural understanding is groups fairly attractive (16% both), they strongly differ in the least attractive choice. Travelling opportunities and increased maturity are the least appealing to bachelors and Masters accordingly. Moreover, Master Degree students seem to be more ~~indifferent~~ indifferent to the language learning prospects (7% difference between groups).

Reasons and future development

The main explanation of for the observed trends is the age gap between two groups. Master Degree students are at least 4 years older, more mature and independent. Therefore, they consider future career
