1. What is the difference between comic books and graphic novels?
2. When was the expression 'graphic novel' first used?
3. Did Watchmen have good sales?
4. What is the most common art style among visual novels?
5. In which country are visual novels especially popular?

Task 2. Task 1: 11

The source is an article from Wikipedia titled 'Graphic novel'.

Graphic novels are books that consist of drawings, but they're different from comic books as comics are paperback ~~books~~ and published in a series. The term ~~was~~ was first used in a fanzine essay in 1964. After some successful graphic novel publications (such as Spiegelman's Maus or Watchmen by Moore and Gibbons) the term became a category in bookshops. It is still not strictly defined.

~~Visual novels~~ Visual novels are video games with lots of text illustrated by videos or drawings and few interactive elements (unlike adventure games, which are based on player interaction). They originated in Japan and most of them feature anime-style art.

I believe such forms of media are important because they introduce new prospects for artists. Furthermore, they make reading more appealing to the general public with graphic novels having captivating art and visual novels enabling reader interaction.

Task 2: 34

Task 3.

I woke up in the morning and found myself in an unfamiliar place with only dinosaurs all around. I got up and went for a walk, staring at the huge monstrous creatures in shock. How could it be? Just yesterday I was living a normal life in the twenty-second century!

I tried to be careful, but suddenly a tree branch cracked under my foot. And just like that, I was noticed. A gigantic dinosaur ~~monster~~ looked right at me menacingly with its glowing yellow eyes. It was as tall as a skyscraper and had ~~horrifying~~ enormous teeth. My heart started pounding loudly.

I started running as fast as I could, running for my life while the monster was chasing me. ~~I tried to turn back~~ Exhausted, I was about to give up when I came ~~back~~ across a lake and jumped right in. ~~Then~~ I saw a shadow in the water underneath me going up at full speed. I tried to swim away, but it was too late...

And I woke up once again in a white room with some device connected to my head. A man dressed in a suit was standing next ~~to~~ to me.

'What was that?' I asked, trembling. 'Where am I?'

He replied, 'Today is the first of October, 2115. About an hour ago ~~you~~ you bought a ticket to our enhanced virtual reality entertainment centre. We temporarily deleted some of your memories for better experience; don't worry, they'll come back. Hope you enjoyed it!'
