Russian

Task 1: 15

Task 2.

From the Wikipedia article about Realism one can learn more about artistic movement that became revolutionary both for the art world and the society in general.

Realism, led by Courbet, appeared in France during the French Revolution of 1848. On the contrary to the Romantic movement, realists avoided artificiality, depicted life in all its manifestations. Realism defined the new values of the industrial society and noted the changes that came along with it.

Over the century, Realism spread across Europe, reflected on the Russian art through the works of the Peredvizhniki (Perov, Surikov, Repin and etc)

From my perspective, the phenomenon of Realism was critically important for people in the late XIX century, as it depicted what the difficulties representatives of different social classes faced, aimed to change the character of human relations, at that time. This artistic movement <sup>of the XIX century</sup> remains influential these days as it helps to recreate everyday situations, which happened barely two hundred years ago, develop empathy towards people.

Task 2: 33

Task 3.

I woke up in the morning and found myself in an unfamiliar place with only sand all around. For a moment I could not understand if it was still a dream or not. When I realized that the surroundings were not created by my imagination, a thought: "Is it a joke?" sparked in my mind. I looked around and the only thing I could understand was that I appeared to be in some kind of a desert with no phone, food or water. What can be worse than this?

Despite my anxiety and fear, there was no way I would stand still and wait for my savior to come. I set off to find someone or something. It seemed like I was <sup>roaming</sup> going for ages, the sun was setting and the landscape of that endless desert was frightening and upsetting. Finally, ~~I saw a light not far away~~ I came to a coast and saw light not far away. ¶

I could not believe my own eyes. There were my friends! I had a mixed feeling: on the one hand, I was happier than ever that I managed to meet my beloved ones, ~~and that the horror~~ but, on the other, a thought of about whether they were playing played a trick with me was bothering me. "Surprise Happy Birthday!", cried they excitedly. ~~I could not believe I had forgotten about my own birthday because of the adventure that happened to me!~~, said I.

It turned out that Grace, Luke and Tom ~~had plan~~ who decided to plan a real-life quest for me to shake me up a little bit and ~~create a~~ make this day as memorable as ever. They managed to do this, it was a birthday I will never forget!

Topic 2 cap. 2

② From the 6 articles about Realism one can learn more about this (revolutionary) artistic movement, which influenced the art significantly both for the art world and the society in general.

Realism <sup>firstly led by founder was Gustave Courbet,</sup> emerged appeared in France around the Revolution of 1848-1849. In the contrary to the Romantic <sup>that avoided artificiality,</sup> movement Realist realists depicted life in all its manifestations, <sup>and were not afraid of depicting members of all social classes'</sup> representatives <sup>in an imperceptible appearance</sup> Realism <sup>defined the new values of the industrial society & emphasizing the latter</sup> and marks noted <sup>imperialist in the paintings]</sup> modern changes that came along with it.

Realism spread across Europe, was most reflected on the Russian art through the works of the Peredvizhniki (Perov, Savrasov, Surikov, Repin).

From my perspective, the phenomenon of Realism played a vital role in is significantly important (for the art and people) as it helps to understand the difficulties of life of different social classes, members and develop empathy towards people, that is why it influenced the s of the XIX and still influences now it enables us to widen our outlook on the world, reconstruct some episodes.... in our imagination
